John L. Lewis Summoned To Appear Before Board With Walkout Data

Author Of "Work Or Fight" Bill Says Time Has Come For Showdown

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—The War Labor Board made an eleventh-hour attempt today to settle the strike of miners in the hard coal fields of Pennsylvania in a desperate hope to prevent use of army troops to reopen struck mines.

While congress clamored for drastic action, the Labor Board called before it John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, the heads of 22 union locals conducting the outlay strike, and representatives of five major coal companies whose mines have been closed.

Lewis, deeply troubled, carried with him reports showing that only 9,300 of the 90,000 miners in the anthracite fields were on strike. This was in contrast to unofficial estimates by the Labor Board that 18,000 were idle.

Lewis Plea Ignored

It was learned that Lewis, as long ago as January 4, appealed to the hard coal miners not to strike in their demands for a $2-a-day wage increase. At that time, Lewis sent letters to be posted in all union halls in the hard coal fields calling for settlement of the miners' wage demands in "an ordinary manner." So that victory can be had, not only on the battlefronts of the world, but on the production front of our mines and factories.

Sources close to Lewis denied that the miners were striking in protest over an increase in union dues which amounts to only about 33½ cents a month. They said that the miners striking were using the protest as cause for the strike so that they could not be accused of violating the union contract by walking out for wage boosts while a contract was in effect.

Ikkes Critical

While the Labor Board arranged the meeting, Secretary of Interior Ikkes called the strike "highly reprehensible." Asked what could be (Continued on Page Three)

Glamour Road Leads Once-Svelte Film Star Into Dark Prison Cell

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15 — The glamour road to Hollywood success detoured abruptly into a dark jail cell today for Frances Farmer—and the once-svelte movie queen's fadeout was the most dramatic role she had ever played.

Her exit cue from filmdom's glittery limelight was a 180-day jail sentence for violation of a drunk driving probation.

But it was only the final act of 48 hours of unrehearsed off-screen drama which included a fight with her hair dresser, another battle in a Hollywood nightclub and a hotel room strip-tease before an audience of police officers who traded a warrant for the performance.

Appearing in court disheveled and unkempt, the 29-year-old actress was the complete antithesis of a big time stage and screen star.

Her blonde hair was scraggly. Her eyes were red and swollen. The famous Frances Farmer figure was camouflaged by a soiled, mussed sweater suit.

More Trouble

Blonde Frances Farmer, 29, above, of the screen and stage, who recently was convicted of driving while intoxicated, is in trouble with the law again. Police officers who went to arrest her in Hollywood for violating parole on the traffic conviction related that the actress met them at the door in the nude and then slowly donned her clothes when they finally persuaded her to accompany them to the Santa Monica, Cal., jail.

LABOR RACKET BILL SET FOR EARLY ACTION

Measure Would Set Aside High Court Ruling On Union Immunity

EASTMAN BACKS PLAN

Use Of Force To Prevent Flows Of War Material Draws Criticism

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 — Supporters of the Hobbs anti-racketeering bill today claimed they had completed arrangements to pass the measure in the House within the next 30 days carrying a wartime rider sought by Joseph B. Eastman, director of Defense transportation.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Hobbs (D) Ala., is aimed at union interference with interstate commerce by "violence, threats, coercion, or intimidation," and sets aside the recent supreme court decision by the then Justice Byrnes who held that congress had not intended that the original 1934 Anti-Racketeering Act apply to labor unions.

Congressional backers of the bill, which is opposed by organized labor, claim that it has been made the first order of business for the house judiciary committee and will be reported forthwith without hearings. They add that they expect similar favorable action from the rules committee and prompt passage by the house not later than mid-February.

Board Has Facts

The judiciary committee is understood to take the position that the lengthy hearings which it held last year on a similar bill by Hobbs are sufficient. That measure was reported favorably but was held up by the rules committee purportedly because of the (Continued on Page Three)

1,000 PASSENGER AIRPLANES SEEN FOLLOWING WAR

CHICAGO, Jan. 15 — Great transport planes that will carry 1,000 persons each and whisk them half way around the world within 24 hours were envisioned today as an aftermath of this war by a noted Chicago scientist.

The modern "Magic Carpet" was described by Dr. Gustav Egloff, director of research for the Universal Oil Products company and a prominent figure in the science of petroleum.

He told 300 executives of business organizations from many parts of the country that the unprecedented wartime scientific advances would benefit mankind in many ways when victory permits their conversion to ordinary commercial use.

"Airplanes hurtling through the air at over 500 miles an hour carrying a thousand or more passengers will make all parts of the world less than 24 hours from Chicago," he declared.

"Luxurious as the Normandie and Queen Mary were for ocean travel, airships yet to come will operate with a smoothness and comfort unknown today."

"Low cost air travel and jitney planes should be within the pocketbook of every American. The competitive impact of the new airplane industry on all other forms of transportation may be quite serious."

United States naval experts plan all sorts of aerial headaches for the Japs now occupying barren islands of the strategic Aleutians in this snow and wind-swept metal hut. SUBS CLEAR OUT OF CARIBBEAN

American Counter-Attack Proves Too Much For Undersea Raiders

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Jan. 15.—Hounded by an American counter-offensive, axis submarines today have ceased their recent mass assault against strategic Caribbean shipping lanes.

The sinking of Allied ships in this area has been reduced strikingly within the past few weeks. There was not a single attack by enemy subs during the latter part of December, indicating that the undersea raiders have found their Caribbean campaign too costly to continue.

Commenting on the withdrawal of axis subs, Rear Admiral J. B. Oldendorf, temporarily in command of the Caribbean sea frontier, said:

"We can not consider the submarine menace completely eliminated yet."

"It can be said that the subs—for the time being, at least—have retired from the Caribbean area. We hope to keep them away."

The Navy, because of security reasons, has not disclosed the number of axis submarines that have been destroyed. Indications are that the American ships and aircraft have inflicted heavy and damaging blows against the U-boats.

Admiral Oldendorf is commander of the Trinidad sector of the Caribbean frontier. He currently is in command of the entire region. All the resources available were hurled into the counter measures against the U-boat offensive. American and British destroyers and sub chasers, U. S. Naval aircraft and army planes hammered back at the undersea prowlers. The rate of sinkings immediately began to decline.

PILFERED CASH GOES TO WORK TO REPAY BANK

MILLERTON, N. Y., Jan. 15—Pilfered funds which he has invested wisely may yet enable Anton A. Yakubowski, 27, to pay back the $55,308 which he stole from a bank where he was formerly employed.

Having invested the money in three farms, Yakubowski surrendered to police on December 19, last.

Today an agreement was on file in the Millerton county clerk's office whereby Yakubowski, permitted his liberty, would work the three farms and use the proceeds to make full restitution to the bank. Provision is made, however, that title to the farms rest with the bank until the obligation has been settled.

Monthly payments which he must make have been set at $750.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

Flash—OPA spokesman says ersatz "Victory sausage" soon will replace hot dog!

Flash—It will come with built-in heartburn!

Flash—So what?

Evolution of the hot dog: Frankfurter, frankfur, frank, victory sausage.

The frankfurter was invented by a butcher with a half pound of trimmings and a rubber glove.

He stuffed the fingers with meat, care and spice, amputated at the joint and concealed his crime in a roll.

As the police closed in he smothered it with mustard and said "they can't prove a thing without the body."

When they asked him what it was he said "it's a frankfurter." They said "that's a lot of bologna!" He said "that's exactly right—now will you try for the $64?"

The unknown butcher will be remembered so long as dyspepsia lasts. He created for us a brave new world of burps.

Thought for the day: No matter how thin you slice it—it's victory sausage.

WOMAN GOES TO DEATH IN CHAIR

South Carolina Executes Former Teacher, Two Men For Murder

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 15—Mrs. Sue Logue, 42-year-old former Edgefield county school teacher, today became the first woman to die in South Carolina's electric chair. She was put to death with two men for the slaying of Davis W. Timmerman in September, 1941.

Executed with her were George Logue, her brother-in-law, and Clarence Bagwell.

Today's triple execution brought to eight the number of persons who have died in the wake of a strange feud which started three years ago in an argument over a calf.

Mrs. Logue's husband, Wallace, was first to die. Timmerman was tried for the murder, but acquitted. Timmerman was shot to death a few months later.

Then two officers who went to arrest Sue and George Logue were met with a hail of gunfire and slain. Fred Dorn, a tenant on the Logue farm, also was killed in the battle.

The state claimed Sue and Logue had paid Bagwell $500 to kill Timmerman.

The three died calmly, but all had declined breakfast and only Bagwell had slept any during the night, prison officials reported.

Officials said the three had their last meal last night. Attorneys for the trio had battled vigorously to save them from the chair, and their execution came less than 24 hours after an appeal to the United States supreme court for a stay of execution had been denied.

ARGENTINA NOT TO JOIN CHILE IN AXIS BREAK

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 15 — Chile has failed in a final effort to persuade Argentina to join with her in breaking off diplomatic relations with the axis powers, the diplomatic expert of the newspaper Critica declared today.

Dr. Carlos Guiraldes, Argentina's ambassador to Chile, who had returned to Buenos Aires to lay the Chilean proposals before his government, was reported to have left Thursday by plane for Santiago with instruction from President Ramon S. Castillo to inform President Juan Antonio Rios of Chile that Argentina was not prepared at this time to break with the axis.

Chile meanwhile was reported to have prepared a draft of a resolution rupturing relations with the axis and it was expected to be submitted to the national congress next week for approval.

RAF Goes After Lorient As Concern Over U-Boat Activity Increases

BULLETIN

LONDON, Jan. 15—A major effort by the Royal Air Force to combat the German submarine menace by direct action was cited today in connection with a heavy raid last night on Lorient, Nazi U-boat base on the French coast.

Switching from the usual night raids on Germany's industrial Ruhr which ebullient British pilots call "Happy Valley" because of the splendid results invariably obtained, the RAF went after Lorient in force, blasting the port and installations with large-calibre bombs. Two planes failed to return from the mission.

Transfer of activities to Lorient was the most significant indication yet of the concern felt over Adolf Hitler's U-boat campaign, which is admittedly reaching unprecedented savagery requiring "strongest handling."

The recent series of sustained raids on the Ruhr were aimed at least partly against factories manufacturing essential submarine parts and turning out high grade submarine metals.

Soviet forces smashing towards Rostov, gateway of the Caucasus, have entered the "Rostov region," said an official Soviet announcement today which reported recapture of Zavetnoye in a rapid advance.

Red army columns, driving from the north, east and south, drew closer about the key city an encircling wall of men, guns and tanks. Fall of Rostov would imperil all axis forces trapped in the Caucasus for through it must flow the supplies and munitions to maintain the invading armies.

The Germans fought with bitter desperation and were reported pouring reserves into the line at threatened points in a vain effort to check the Soviet onrush. Furious counter-attacks, particularly in the lower Don, slowed but did not halt the Russian advances.

Glamour Road Leads Once-Svelte Film Star Into Dark Prison Cell

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15—The glamour road to Hollywood success detoured abruptly into a dark jail cell today for Frances Farmer—and the once-svelte movie queen's fadeout was the most dramatic role she had ever played.

Her exit cue from filmdom's glittery limelight was a 180-day jail sentence for violation of a drunk driving probation.

But it was only the final act of 48 hours of unrehearsed off-screen drama which included a fight with her hair dresser, another battle in a Hollywood nightclub and a hotel room strip-tease before an audience of police officers who traded a warrant for the performance.

Appearing in court disheveled and unkempt, the 29-year-old actress was the complete antithesis of a big time stage and screen star.

Her blonde hair was scraggly. Her eyes were red and swollen. The famous Frances Farmer figure was camouflaged by a soiled, mussed sweater suit.

Shrill, Bitter Voice

And the voice—which had helped her climb to stage and screen fame from the University of Washington campus only six years ago—was shrill and bitter with confused emotion as she faced Police Judge Marshal Hickson.

Miss Farmer made the personal appearance after failing to pay the final installment on a $250 fine for drunk driving in a dim-out zone last October. She additionally had broken a parole which stipulated she would refrain from liquor for two years.

"Have you been drinking?" Judge Hickson asked.

"Yes! All the liquor I could lay my hands on! Benzadrine and everything else!"

Outshouting the raging actress, the judge yelled: "I sentence you to 180 days in jail!"

Starts Battle

"That's fine! That's just fine," retorted Miss Farmer. As officers started leading her away, she screamed, and kicked several of them in the shins. Shouting, she clung to a chair, lashing out at the policemen. The chair upset, spilling her to the floor.

Officers managed to strap her arms with a heavy belt. They removed her shoes to soften the kicks. And as they carried her forcibly from the court, the actress shrieked:

"Have you ever had a broken heart? Have you?"

She was divorced last June from Actor Lief Erikson, and more recently had been reported engaged to a Hollywood lawyer who since has married a society woman.

At the county jail booking office, Miss Farmer regained her composure. In dramatic fashion, disregarding her disheveled appearance, she intoned:

"Stupid Dolt"

"I'm an actress. . . then snapped—"you stupid dolt, I'm a vagrant."

Her performance turned to sprightliness when a police matron, Mrs. Vada Russell, announced (Continued on Page Three)

FATHER WORKS 743 DAYS; SON FIGHTS FOR 118

CALDWELL, N. J., Jan. 15—No one can say that Lloyd Van Ness isn't doing his job while his son is fighting Japs on Guadalcanal island in the Southwest Pacific.

Father of John Stiles Van Ness, a marine, Lloyd has worked 743 consecutive days—Sundays and holidays included—on his job as head of the disposal system of the propeller division of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation.

"This is everybody's war," the working Van Ness explained. "Everybody must work together now or be chained together later. While my son fights with bullets, I'll do my share at home in the best way I know—and that is to stay on the job."

The younger Van Ness created somewhat of a record himself. He fought the Japanese for 118 days and nights without relief after being one of three marines to survive a deadly Jap cross-fire in the first American landing on the island.

WOMAN GOES TO DEATH IN CHAIR

South Carolina Executes Former Teacher, Two Men For Murder

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 15—Mrs. Sue Logue, 42-year-old former Edgefield county school teacher, today became the first woman to die in South Carolina's electric chair. She was put to death with two men for the slaying of Davis W. Timmerman in September, 1941.

Executed with her were George Logue, her brother-in-law, and Clarence Bagwell.

Today's triple execution brought to eight the number of persons who have died in the wake of a strange feud which started three years ago in an argument over a calf.

Mrs. Logue's husband, Wallace, was first to die. Timmerman was tried for the murder, but acquitted. Timmerman was shot to death a few months later.

Then two officers who went to arrest Sue and George Logue were met with a hail of gunfire and slain. Fred Dorn, a tenant on the Logue farm, also was killed in the battle.

The state claimed Sue and Logue had paid Bagwell $500 to kill Timmerman.

The three died calmly, but all had declined breakfast and only Bagwell had slept any during the night, prison officials reported.

Officials said the three had their last meal last night. Attorneys for the trio had battled vigorously to save them from the chair, and their execution came less than 24 hours after an appeal to the United States supreme court for a stay of execution had been denied.

ARGENTINA NOT TO JOIN CHILE IN AXIS BREAK

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 15—Chile has failed in a final effort to persuade Argentina to join with her in breaking off diplomatic relations with the axis powers, the diplomatic expert of the newspaper Critica declared today.

Dr. Carlos Guiraldes, Argentina's ambassador to Chile, who had returned to Buenos Aires to lay the Chilean proposals before his government, was reported to have left Thursday by plane for Santiago with instruction from President Ramon S. Castillo to inform President Juan Antonio Rios of Chile that Argentina was not prepared at this time to break with the axis.

Chile meanwhile was reported to have prepared a draft of a resolution rupturing relations with the axis and it was expected to be submitted to the national congress next week for approval.

RAF Goes After Lorient As Concern Over U-Boat Activity Increases

BULLETIN

LONDON, Jan. 15—A major effort by the Royal Air Force to combat the German submarine menace by direct action was cited today in connection with a heavy raid last night on Lorient, Nazi U-boat base on the French coast.

Switching from the usual night raids on Germany's industrial Ruhr which ebullient British pilots call "Happy Valley" because of the splendid results invariably obtained, the RAF went after Lorient in force, blasting the port and installations with large-calibre bombs. Two planes failed to return from the mission.

Transfer of activities to Lorient was the most significant indication yet of the concern felt over Adolf Hitler's U-boat campaign, which is admittedly reaching unprecedented savagery requiring "strongest handling."

The recent series of sustained raids on the Ruhr were aimed at least partly against factories manufacturing essential submarine parts and turning out high grade submarine metals.

LONDON, Jan. 15—The fighting French army of Gen. Jacques Leclerc surged steadily forward in southern Libya today while other French units which captured two strategic hills in South Central Tunisia were reported advancing toward Kairouan.

Soviet forces smashing towards Rostov, gateway to the Caucasus, have entered the "Rostov region," said an official Soviet announcement today which reported recapture of Zavelnoye in a rapid advance.

Red army columns, driving from the north, east and south, drew closer today to the key city an encircling wall of men, guns and tanks. Fall of Rostov would imperil all axis forces trapped in the Caucasus for through it must flow the supplies and munitions to maintain the invading armies.

The Germans fought with bitter desperation and were reported pouring reserves into the line at threatened points in a vain effort to check the Soviet onrush. Furious counter-attacks, particularly in the lower Don, slowed but did not halt the Russian advances.

LUNCHEON PROGRAM SET

Invitations Issued By Dan McClain, Director Of Local Campaign

Pickaway county will be honored Monday for its role in Uncle Sam's salvage campaign, which proved so successful, when John Dexter, assistant to Robert O. Weible, state salvage chief, appears here to present the county a pennant won by exceeding a goal of 100 pounds of scrap metal for each person in the county.

The pennant will be handed to Dan McClain, salvage chairman, after a luncheon in the Betz restaurant scheduled at noon Monday. Mr. Dexter will appear as the speaker.

The salvage campaign, sponsored by the nation's newspapers, surpassed all expectations, Donald Nelson, chief of WPB, and other national leaders offering congratulations to newspapers for the role they played in helping to put the major project over so successfully.

Mr. McClain said Friday that invitations have been issued to persons who helped make the drive a success. Among persons to attend the luncheon will be the county commissioners, John Keller, Wayne Hoover and Lyman Penn; engineer, Henry T. McCrady; school superintendent, George D. McDowell; U. S. D. A. chief, John G. Boggs; county extension agent, F. K. Blair; highway department, Dick Hedges; WPA scrap collection, Wilbur Knox, local school superintendents, T. E. Wilson, representing newspapers, and implement dealers.

Just where the salvage pennant will be flown is not certain. It has been suggested that a place beneath the Stars and Stripes on the courthouse tower be assigned it, but other suggestions are that the pennant be placed inside the courthouse so it will be better preserved.

VICTORY GARDEN PLANS TO BE TOPIC OF PARLEY

Leaders of Circleville and Pickaway county Garden Clubs and civic organizations have been asked to attend a conference Saturday at 2 p. m. in the Elks home to organize a Victory Garden campaign which it is hoped will prove to be a great undertaking.

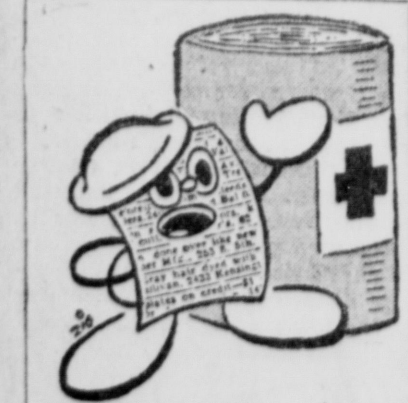

F. K. Blair, Pickaway county extension agent, is conducting the organization plan, and his office has sent letters to many city and county residents urging that they join in the project.

Officers will be elected and plans for setting up the major program will be outlined.

Victory Garden projects are expected to occupy interest and attention in practically every community in Ohio during the next Spring, Summer and Fall. State organizations are being formed with official support.

The letters mailed to leaders of the various organizations urge that representatives be named to attend the conference.

Abutments for the new bridge over Paint Creek on Route 22, one-half mile west of New Holland, have been completed and steel work on the bridge structure is under way.

The bridge replacing the old wooden bridge over the creek is not a new one, steel being removed from Deer Creek at Mount Sterling where a bridge was replaced two years ago.

When the new bridge is completed the old wooden one will be permitted to stand for the present.

The new bridge will be a narrow one, giving two cars barely enough room to pass if they are moving slowly. After the war, highway department officials expect to replace the structure with a wider bridge to more adequately handle Route 22's heavy traffic.

Behind the feud is the fact that last year Jesse Jones' Defense Supplies, Inc., purchased the entire Cuban sugar crop at a very high price, and now we find ourselves with 1,600,000 tons of sugar left in Cuba, plus 65,000,000 gallons of invert syrup, plus 70,000,000 gallons of black strap molasses.

We needed the syrup and molasses for making alcohol. Also we feared a sugar shortage. But we did not figure on the submarine and shipping crisis which now makes it almost impossible to move the above balance out of Cuba.

Secretary Hull Feuds With Sugar Interests

By Drew Pearson
WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—Correll Hull, who as an ex-congressman detests lobbyists, especially sugar lobbyists, is waging a silent but potent feud against the big sugar interests of Cuba.

Actually, Cuba itself has very little to do with it. It is the big Wall Street sugar companies dominated by the Chase National Bank and the National City Bank which have aroused Secretary Hull's Tennessee ire. He is out to break their strangle hold on our island neighbor.

Behind the feud is the fact that last year Jesse Jones' Defense Supplies, Inc., purchased the entire Cuban sugar crop at a very high price, and now we find ourselves with 1,600,000 tons of sugar left in Cuba, plus 65,000,000 gallons of invert syrup, plus 70,000,000 gallons of black strap molasses.

We needed the syrup and molasses for making alcohol. Also we feared a sugar shortage. But we did not figure on the submarine and shipping crisis which now makes it almost impossible to move the above balance out of Cuba.

None of this was Jesse Jones' fault, except possibly the high price—which gave the big sugar companies and their New York bankers a profit of $60,000,000 to $80,000,000.

However, Cuba now wants us to buy the current sugar crop, and we don't want it. We already have 1,600,000 tons in Cuba which we can't move, plus syrup and molasses; so there is no reason in the world for buying more.

The Cuban Government, however, points out that it cannot sell its sugar unless it sells to us; and with our market gone, the island will be bankrupt, will face riots and revolution.

The State Department is sympathetic to the Cuban viewpoint and has suggested that Cuba diversify its crops, planting peanuts which are badly needed here, plus fibre crops making rope, no longer obtainable from the Philippines. The State Department also has offered a loan to improve the central highway running the length of the island.

However, the Cuban Government is reluctant. They say they have been raising sugar for 400 years, that they understand sugar, and they don't want to diversify now.

WALL STREET RUNS CUBA
Real factor behind the Cuban Government, however, is the big sugar companies and their Wall Street backers. They not only brought pressure on President Batista not to accept the State Department's generous compromise, but they are now waging a propaganda campaign against Secretary Hull.

Mr. Hull has just discovered that the sugar companies have raised a secret kitty of $1,000,000 to buy radio time and carry on newspaper propaganda against the State Department's proposal, in order to force a purchase of the next Cuban sugar crop. Already Cuban newspapers have started the campaign.

Secretary Hull, however, is standing pat. He believes that the New York financiers got enough profit out of the $60,000,000 to $80,000,000 bonanza that came their way through Jesse Jones' deal, and that Cuba, sooner or later must throw off its Wall street yoke.

Government would let him out of the country to join the Canadian army. As a Canadian colonel, he now gets $4,000 a year—less than he paid his servants in Hollywood.

FDR'S SURPRISE
One thing that didn't get out about the "surprise" party at the White House for Speaker Sam Rayburn, on Sam's 61st birthday, was a little frill added by the President.

Rayburn was called to the White House with other Congressional leaders ostensibly to discuss the legislative program for the new session. But when the group arrived, all but Rayburn were ushered into the private office of Economic Stabilizer Jimmy Byrnes.

The Speaker was told that the President wished to see him alone for a few minutes.

The two men discussed legislative problems for a few minutes. Meantime, the President was keeping a sharp eye on the clock. Suddenly he broke out:

"Sam, the reason I asked you to come in here alone was to discuss a personal matter that has been worrying me."

Rayburn eyed him curiously, said nothing.

"It's about you, Sam," continued the President without batting an eyelash. "We're old friends and I feel I can talk to you frankly. I've got reports from Capitol Hill that the Democrats are dissatisfied with your leadership. They think you're getting too old to be Speaker."

At that precise moment, Democratic Congressman Cliff Woodrum of Virginia, Bob Ramspeck of Georgia, Republican leader Joe Martin of Massachusetts, Representative Jim Wadsworth of New York and other House members burst into the President's office, led by Jimmy Byrnes.

Together they began singing

"Happy Birthday to You" at the top of their voices.

"That was perfect timing, fellows," beamed the President. He had planned it all very carefully himself.

Rayburn was called to the White House with other Congressional leaders ostensibly to discuss the legislative program for the new session. But when the group arrived, all but Rayburn were ushered into the private office of Economic Stabilizer Jimmy Byrnes.

The Speaker was told that the President wished to see him alone for a few minutes.

The two men discussed legislative problems for a few minutes. Meantime, the President was keeping a sharp eye on the clock. Suddenly he broke out:

"Sam, the reason I asked you to come in here alone was to discuss a personal matter that has been worrying me."

Rayburn eyed him curiously, said nothing.

"It's about you, Sam," continued the President without batting an eyelash. "We're old friends and I feel I can talk to you frankly. I've got reports from Capitol Hill that the Democrats are dissatisfied with your leadership. They think you're getting too old to be Speaker."

At that precise moment, Democratic Congressman Cliff Woodrum of Virginia, Bob Ramspeck of Georgia, Republican leader Joe Martin of Massachusetts, Representative Jim Wadsworth of New York and other House members burst into the President's office, led by Jimmy Byrnes.

Together they began singing

"Happy Birthday to You" at the top of their voices.

"That was perfect timing, fellows," beamed the President. He had planned it all very carefully himself.

made a surprise visit to the Burma front where his British forces are driving on the port of Akyah. In New Guinea Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces struck at a point within ten miles of Lae, 125 miles north of Buna-Gona area which has been cleared of all but remnants of the invasion force of 15,000. Berlin reported American and British forces were massing near Medjez-El-Bab, 35 miles southwest of Tunis, and that attacks had already been launched against axis defense lines.

Lull In Libya

The lull in ground fighting in Libya continued but bombers of the middle east command ranged over the Mediterranean area in attacks on axis troop concentrations along the Libyan and Tunisian shores. Eight axis fighters were shot down and thirteen allied planes were reported missing.

Political developments also favored the allied cause. Chile was reported ready to submit to its congress next week a resolution to break off relations with the axis powers after failing in a last-minute effort to persuade Argentina to take joint action.

Washington verified the London announcement that there was no friction between the United States and British governments over handling of the North African political situation. Both governments are making efforts to bring about a meeting between Gen. Charles DeGaulle, leader of the Fighting French, and Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, political and military chief of the French African colonies.

Bad Home Front News

Only on the home front was there discouraging news today. Leaders of Pennsylvania hard-coal miners have been summoned to Washington to meet with John L. Lewis and government officials in an effort to end the unauthorized strike said to involve from 9,000 to 13,000 men. Alternative action, it was said, will be government seizure and operation of the mines.

The War Production Board in Washington estimated that "absenteeism" of war plant workers is slowing down production of planes at least 300 units monthly, and that there were similar losses in production in other war plants, especially shipyards.

Women workers are absent more frequently than men, due in large part, it was believed, to a shortage of day nurseries, sickness of other members of their families, and the difficulties of wartime shopping.

Other causes of absence were said to be housing and transportation problems.

The situation is being systematically investigated, and steps will be taken to remove the chief causes uncovered as the reasons for unnecessary absences.

Execution moved rapidly, but the start was delayed several minutes when it was discovered the keys to the chair had been left at the home of one of the guards and a messenger had to be dispatched for them.

Mrs. Logue, who occupied cell No. 1 in the death house, was the first to go to the chair. She appeared only slightly nervous as she entered the 20 by 40 foot death chamber. A guard walked beside her and supported her by one arm.

She was clad in a pair of gray slacks, the right leg of which had been rolled above one knee, a white shirt, and a kerchief over her shaved head. She carried a Bible in one hand. Six ministers, including the Rev. W. M. Smith, chaplain of the Women's Prison, stood nearby.

Calm In Chair

Taking her place in the chair she placed the Bible in her lap and then watched the guards intently as they carefully, but gently strapped her in place. Captain C. A. Sullivan, who directed the executions, asked if she had anything to say.

"No sir, I am ready to go," she replied.

Her brother-in-law, George Logue, was calm when he took his place in the chair at 6:25. Asked if he had any statement to make, he replied:

Pleads Innocence

"Yes. Lots of people have said things that are not so. Joe Frank (Joe Frank Logue, who testified for the state and who also is facing trial in the case) told lots of things that were not so. The solicitor told a lie. God knows I am innocent. Stories caused me to go to the chair."

"Are you trusting in Jesus?" A minister asked him.

"That's right," the doomed man replied.

Bagwell—the only one of the three who had any sleep during the night—was mumbling in an undertone as he took his place in the chair at 6:39.

A minister asked if he were trusting in God.

"I am trusting in the Lord and am a saved man," he replied.

Then, just before the switch was thrown, he said:

"Whiskey caused this . . ."

"And his voice trailed off into a faint mumble."

The bodies of all three victims were claimed by relatives for burial.

done if the miners continued to strike, Ickes replied:

"The government could take the mines over."

Such a step would entail use of troops.

Congress, meanwhile, was angry over the walkout. The Truman Committee investigating the war effort, held a special session to consider the strike. It took no action pending the Labor Board hearing. But individual members of congress were loud in their denunciation of the dispute.

"Work Or Fight"

Rep. Colmer (D) Miss., author of a "work or fight" bill, said "the time has come for a showdown on strikes." Rep. Smith (R) Ohio urged a law to outlaw strikes for the duration. Rep. Satterfield (D) Va., called the miners' strike "an unspeakable affront" to the nation.

Rep. Eberhardt (D) Pa., branded it a "disgraceful episode." Sen. Truman (D) Mo., chairman of the committee bearing his name, agreed with UMW officials that wages and not dues comprised the chief issue in the controversy. But he warned that giving in to the pay demands would lead to a differential between hard and soft coal miners and possibly result in widespread strikes in all coal fields.

Mine worker officials were troubled over government intervention in the strike, fearing that the strikers would interpret it as a sign that they may get wage increases. They reported that the strikers, who once numbered more than 20,000 were gradually returning to work at the insistence of union leaders.

RATIONING OF LIQUOR ORDERED BY OHIO BOARD

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 15.—Rationing of available wholesale liquor supplies to permit holders, based on a test plan in operation in Columbus for the last month, will be instituted next week on a statewide basis, acting Liquor Director Don Fisher said today.

Fisher added, however, that there still was no decision on the so-called card rationing system for individuals, but indicated that since the holiday rush has subsided individual rationing may be abandoned as unnecessary.

The Columbus permit holder system, which will be extended to all other areas in the state, provides for the withholding of each week's available wholesale supply until its exact amount is determined. Then it is distributed to permit holders on the pro-rated basis of their purchases in the corresponding week of last year.

In addition to Mr. Defenbaugh, she leaves two daughters, Mrs. Blanche Mettler and Mrs. Maude D. Kinsel, and one granddaughter, Barbara Jeanne Mettler, all of the home.

Mrs. Defenbaugh was a daughter of Lyman and Eliza Allen and was born in Fairfield county, near Cedar Hill.

The senator tossed the bill into the assembly hopper early this week. Liggitt said that legislatures of Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky and Michigan would study the measure.

ITALIAN KING HEEDS HUNS AND DAMNS ALLIES

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Italy's royal family, some churchmen and social reformers today are engaged in efforts to bind discontented elements in Italy into a united front for continuance of the war against the democracies, Reuter's news agency said today.

The campaign is a result of instruction given to high Fascist officials by Premier Benito Mussolini, it was said. The royal family now is touring Sicily with flags and fanfares and also visiting bombed cities to bolster Italian morale, it was added.

hearings are expected to be set for next week.

Bridges was to be accompanied by Sidney Baron, New York, secretary of the committee to reopen the Flynn case, and Paul Kern, deceased chairman of the New York Civil Service Commission, to whom protests were made against city employees paying a court yard on Flynn's estate.

"I will present my charges and tell the committee that if it will subpoena the witnesses the charges will be confirmed," said Bridges. "I will ask for public hearings. We want no hearings behind closed doors."

Bridges denied charges made by Flynn that the campaign against him is being engineered by Republicans for political purposes.

"They are trying to make it a partisan issue, but they cannot do it," Bridges said.

Flynn, who said he would welcome an investigation, was represented by friends as being confident that his accusers will be discredited and that he will be confirmed without difficulty.

nearness of the November elections. Hobbs has reintroduced the measure this year, but it carries a new wartime section suggested by Eastman. This section is a re-statement of a World War I law and would apply for the duration of the present conflict.

Punishment Provided

It provides for severe punishment for anyone who shall during the war "knowingly and willfully, by physical force of intimidation, by threats of physical force, obstruct or retard . . . the orderly transportation of persons, troops, munitions, war supplies or mail, or the make-up, movement or disposition of any carrier, in interstate or foreign commerce."

The new section also would authorize the President "to employ the armed forces of the United States to prevent or remove any such obstruction . . . or retardation," on finding that it was "in the public interest" to intervene.

Here is Eastman's statement in support of the new provision:

"Assuming—which I cannot assume—that use of threats, violence, coercion, and intimidation, could be justified in time of peace, certainly it seems absolutely clear that it cannot be justified in time of war and that this government cannot allow the use of force in such a time to prevent the rapid and efficient flow of war and other material over the transportation lines of this country."

DEALERS URGED TO CASH NOTES TAKEN FOR OIL

County rationing office warned dealers in kerosene and fuel oil Friday that Saturday is the last day they can receive credit at the rationing office for notes they have accepted from their customers in place of coupons for kerosene and fuel oil.

The rationing office will accept the notes signed by customers promising to turn over their kerosene and fuel oil coupons and will give dealers necessary certificates to obtain their supplies of kerosene and fuel oil.

When the rationing program started many persons who needed supplies did not have coupon books, so they signed promises to turn over the coupons when they received them. Many have failed to do so, so the rationing office will serve as the collector.

However, dealers must turn in the signed promises not later than Saturday so they can replenish their inventories.

NEW TYPE LAND VEHICLE PROVES BATTLE VALUE

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 15.—A new type land combat vehicle is being manufactured by the Fisher Tank plants in Flint and Grand Blanc, Mich., it was disclosed today.

The announcement came from Brig. Gen. A. B. Quinton, Jr., chief of the Detroit Ordnance district, who presented army-navy awards to each of the plants for work on the all-welded medium M-4 tanks.

The new weapon is a military secret, but an indication of its striking power came from General Quinton who said "it teams" with your tank to form a combination that has smashed everything set before it."

Goes To Solitary

And so, in solitary confinement until she "learns how to act decently," a young actress who once was described by Hollywood executives as "having the most promising future in the acting profession," sat sullenly today—but not quietly.

Several times she has shouted for companions from the small jail cell. "Haven't I any friends?" she called. "I was never so alone in all my life."

QUICK ACCORD IN FRENCH TILT HOPE OF ALLIES

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 15.—Britain's new minister to North Africa, Harold MacMillan, hoped today for an early agreement between Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, high commissioner for North Africa, and Gen. Charles De Gaulle, leader of the Fighting French.

MacMillan said both Britain and the United States expect that a unity of views can be established between the two soon.

The British minister pointed out that any government in North Africa will be regarded by his government as purely provisional for the duration of the war. He said that the same applies to the present De Gaulle government in London.

The policy of the British, he said, is that France and other occupied countries be left free to choose their own form of government after the war.

"We must be careful not to create a situation where an authoritarian group could get control and prevent the will of the people from being freely exercised," he added.

done if the miners continued to strike, Ickes replied:
"The government could take the mines over."
Such a step would entail use of troops.

Congress, meanwhile, was angry over the walkout. The Truman Committee investigating the war effort, held a special session to consider the strike. It took no action pending the Labor Board hearing. But individual members of congress were loud in their denunciation of the dispute.

"Work Or Fight"

Rep. Colmer (D) Miss., author of a "work or fight" bill, said "the time has come for a showdown on strikes." Rep. Smith (R) Ohio urged a law to outlaw strikes for the duration. Rep. Satterfield (D) Va., called the miners' strike "an unspeakable affront" to the nation. Rep. Eberhardt (D) Pa., branded it a "disgraceful episode."

Sen. Truman (D) of Mo., chairman of the committee bearing his name, agreed with UMW officials that wages and not dues comprised the chief issue in the controversy. But he warned that giving in to the pay demands would lead to a differential between hard and soft coal miners and possibly result in widespread strikes in all coal fields.

Mine worker officials were troubled over government intervention in the strike, fearing that the strikers would interpret it as a sign that they may get wage increases. They reported that the strikers, who once numbered more than 20,000 were gradually returning to work at the insistence of union leaders.

RATIONING OF LIQUOR ORDERED BY OHIO BOARD

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 15—Rationing of available wholesale liquor supplies to permit holders, based on a test plan in operation in Columbus for the last month, will be instituted next week on a statewide basis, acting Liquor Director Don Fisher said today.

Fisher added, however, that there still was no decision on the so-called card rationing system for individuals, but indicated that since the holiday rush has subsided individual rationing may be abandoned as unnecessary. The Columbus permit holder system, which will be extended to all other areas in the state, provides for the withholding of each week's available wholesale supply until its exact amount is determined. Then it is distributed to permit holders on the pro-rated basis of their purchases in the corresponding week of last year.

SCIOTO TRAIL NAME CHANGE TO BE PRESSED

Consideration of his bill which would change the name of the Scioto Trail to the United Spanish War Veterans' Memorial Highway will be taken up soon by legislatures of all states through which Route 23 runs, State Senator D. A. Liggitt, Belle Center Republican, said Friday.

The senator tossed the bill into the assembly hopper early this week. Liggitt said that legislatures of Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky and Michigan would study the measure.

ITALIAN KING HEEDS HUNS AND DAMNS ALLIES

LONDON, Jan. 15—Italy's royal family, some churchmen and social reformers today are engaged in efforts to bind discontented elements in Italy into a united front for continuance of the war against the democracies, Reuters news agency said today.

The campaign is a result of instructions given to high Fascist officials by Premier Benito Mussolini, it was said. The royal family now is touring Sicily with flags and fanfares and also visiting bombed cities to bolster Italian morale, it was added.

hearings are expected to be set for next week.

Bridges was to be accompanied by Sidney Baron, New York, secretary of "the committee to repeal the Flynn case" and Paul Kern, deposed chairman of the New York Civil Service Commission, to whom protests were made against city employees paying a courtyard on Flynn's estate.

"I will present my charges and tell the committee that if it will subpoena the witnesses the charges will be confirmed," said Bridges. "I will ask for public hearings. We want no hearings behind closed doors."

Bridges denied charges made by Flynn that the campaign against him is being engineered by Republicans for political purposes.

"They are trying to make it a partisan issue, but they cannot do it," Bridges said.

Flynn, who said he would welcome an investigation, was represented by friends as being confident that his accusers will be discredited and that he will be confirmed without difficulty.

COLUMBUS MAN BUYS JOHN M. DOERING FARM

Dewey C. Black, Columbus insurance man, bought the 134-acre farm of John M. Doering, Washington township, at a sale conducted Thursday by Joe W. Adkins, Jr., referee in bankruptcy. Black bid in the property, which is across the road from a farm owned by he and his wife, for $7,130. The property was appraised at $6,210. The sale was handled by C. G. Chalfin and Willison Leist.

Good prices prevailed for most of the chattels, a total of $1,029.60 being received from chattels. The chattels were appraised at $800. The sale was conducted at the Doering farm.

nearness of the November elections. Hobbs has reintroduced the measure this year, but it carries a new wartime section suggested by Eastman. This section is a re-statement of a World War I law and would apply for the duration of the present conflict.

Punishment Provided

It provides for severe punishment for anyone who shall during the war "knowingly and willfully, by physical force of intimidation, by threats of physical force, obstruct or retard . . . the orderly transportation of persons, troops, munitions, war supplies or mail, or the make-up, movement or disposition of any carrier, in interstate or foreign commerce."

The new section also would authorize the President "to employ the armed forces of the United States to prevent or remove any such obstruction . . . or retardation" on finding that it was "in the public interest" to intervene.

Here is Eastman's statement in support of the new provision:

"Assuming—which I cannot assume—that use of threats, violence, coercion, and intimidation, could be justified in time of peace, certainly it seems absolutely clear that it cannot be justified in time of war and that this government cannot allow the use of force in such a time to prevent the rapid and efficient flow of war and other material over the transportation lines of this country."

DEALERS URGED TO CASH NOTES TAKEN FOR OIL

County rationing office warned dealers in kerosene and fuel oil Friday that Saturday is the last day they can receive credit at the rationing office for notes they have accepted from their customers in place of coupons for kerosene and fuel oil.

The rationing office will accept the notes signed by customers promising to turn over their kerosene and fuel oil coupons and will give dealers necessary certificates to obtain their supplies of kerosene and fuel oil.

When the rationing program started many persons who needed supplies did not have coupon books, so they signed promises to turn over the coupons when they received them. Many have failed to do so, so the rationing office will serve as the collector.

However, dealers must turn in the signed promises not later than Saturday so they can replenish their inventories.

NEW TYPE LAND VEHICLE PROVES BATTLE VALUE

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 15—A new type land combat vehicle is being manufactured by the Fisher Tank plants in Flint and Grand Blanc, Mich., it was disclosed today.

The announcement came from Brig. Gen. A. B. Quinton, Jr., chief of the Detroit Ordnance district, who presented army-navy awards to each of the plants for work on the all-welded medium M-4 tanks.

The new weapon is a military secret, but an indication of its striking power came from General Quinton who said "it teams with your tank to form a combination that has smashed everything set before it."

MOTHER OF SIX USES GAS TO BRING DEATH

DETROIT, Jan. 15—The body of Mrs. Sybilla McGrath, 26-year-old mother of six children, was found today in her apartment by a neighbor who investigated when she heard the crying of the children, ranging in age from three months to seven years.

Police declared the body was nude and that a bed jacket had been bound around the woman's neck. Investigators from the coroner's office said there were bruises on her neck.

The gas jets on the kitchen stove were turned on, police said. The body was found on the living room floor.

Harold McGrath, 27, the husband, a war plant worker, told police he had spent the night in a hotel with a friend, Clarence Lee. He was informed of the tragedy by a neighbor who went to the hotel to take him home.

ed that her fingerprints would be taken.

"Lead on, MacDuff," she shouted with Shakespearean gestures.

An assistant jail keeper asked her why she "couldn't be nice?"

"Who wrote your script?" snapped the actress, "and where did you get that potbelly?"

"I got it from eating—not drinking," he told her, playing the role straight and without a smile.

Goes To Solitary

And so, in solitary confinement until she "learns how to act decently," a young actress who once was described by Hollywood executives as "having the most promising future in the acting profession," sat sullenly today—but not quietly.

Several times she has shouted for companions from the small jail cell. "Haven't I any friends?" she called. "I was never so alone in all my life."

Miss Farmer's career began six years ago when she won a newspaper popularity contest in Seattle, Wash. Returning from a tour of Russia and Europe, she was signed to contract by Paramount studios.

Always temperamental, she once abandoned Hollywood for the New York stage, saying that she never would return to the screen.

Two days ago, after tantrums on the set of "No Escape," Producer Frank King discharged her and substituted Mary Brian.

"She's strictly impossible," King was quoted as saying.

The actress persistently called the matron "Salvation Nell."

Walking down a hall, Miss Fitzgerald of the sheriff's office, she dared him to "take off his glasses." Earlier she told police questioners that "I'm pretty tough in a fight."

To newspapermen and photographers present, the actress turned on expressions of icy disfavor. Glaring at the newsmen, she barked: "Rats! rats, rats, rats!"

QUICK ACCORD IN FRENCH TILT HOPE OF ALLIES

MacMillan said both Britain and the United States expect that a unity of views can be established between the two soon.

TO HOARDERS, IF ANY

FOLK: The most obvious fact about food hoarders is their lack of sportsman-ship. At a time when citizens of normal decency automatically take their chances with their friends and neighbors about food, clothing, and so on, as they would expect to do if they were afloat together on a raft at sea, the hoarders try to grab and keep everything for themselves. One of the most disgusting cases reported lately was that of an Ohio restaurant man who had stored $35,000 worth of food and liquor in his home. He had evidently taken advantage of his business situation to accumulate and conceal the stuff without arousing suspicion. He had supplies hidden all over the place, from cellar to attic. There were 400 cases of whisky, six tons of sugar, one and one-half tons of coffee, 300 cases of pineapples, 150 five-gallon cans of syrup, 100 cases of soups, 1,000 cases of sardines, salmon, tomato juice, canned milk and canned foods of many kinds, hundreds of pounds of nuts, and so on. What any such hoarding amounts to is a deliberate effort to cheat one's country, neighbors and friends in a time of stress and scarcity. To right-minded citizens it brings a sense of shame that any neighborhood or city should be so humiliated.

I have great admiration for veterans of the trouble with Spain, but I also have respect for the name given the highway numbered 23 many, many years ago by the Indians who first traveled it. The Scioto Trail it is, and the Scioto Trail it should remain.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

WASHINGTON—On war issues our new congress is a clinic. Members may differ as to fighting methods, but these possible differences will be based solely upon the contentions of rival proponents of "a that respective programs are more effective than one another. It already is evident that there won't be a dis-senter from a total victory policy, on general principles.

It also is obvious that combined Republicans and a large group of old-fashioned Democrats are in an anti-New Deal majority. Perhaps it isn't quite as compact as the pro-war bunch, but it's pretty solid.

How far this alliance will stick together on other issues, though, still remains problematical.

Post-war peace planning is what splits 'em.

Republicans, in the main, are for peacetime American isolation, but some of 'em favor world federation.

Pro and anti-New Deal Democrats likewise are divided both ways. The pro-New Deal faction undoubtedly is also pro-federation, but, among the Democrats, there also is a sizable disagreeing element, as witness Senator Burton K. Wheeler, an economic radical par excellence but a leading opponent of any alignment with foreign countries. Burton might naturally be expected to plug for internationalism, but he doesn't; he fights it furiously.

This middle alignment is uncertain. It'll take more votes to tell the story.

Historically speaking, the Republican should support a concentration of the executive powers of government and the Democrats should be against it. At present it's all scrambled. Plenty of Democrats are r-republican and plenty of Republicans are democrats.

About the only difference I can see between 'em is that they're of opposing political parties. Their hope is too confused to analyze.

Out of 435 members of the house of representatives there are 106 new members. The total is 222 Democrats, 209 Republicans and four miscellaneous, but that does not tell the whole story. The Democratic total consists principally of Democratic gains from the south, which notoriously is anti-New Deal—even counting them as Democratic New Dealers—which they're not, by any means, for the Democrats are principally anti-New Dealers. They're pro-warriors, but not economic reorgan-ists.

The senate doesn't readjust as fast as the house of representatives does, not having as frequent elections.

Nevertheless, the senators are scared. They've seen what happened to their representatives.

Senate results have frightened 'em.

Among other folk, they're afraid of Vice President Wallace. He's so all-out New Deal that he's considered alarming. He's more so than the president.

The verdict is that he talks too much.

Its reckoning is that he's an Iowa-ite, who'd better be discounted from the southern standpoint.

Southern senators don't like him. Nor do southern representatives.

In brief, it's too much a northern administration, from the Dixie angle.

You hear this from every direction on Capitol Hill.

And Dixie will be decisive in all sorts of ways at this congressional session.

It's tied up with the west agriculturally.

You can see this from the last election returns.

Industrialism and agriculture's versions are somewhat cohesive.

So it appears in congress, anyway.

Farm and industrial legislators incline to get together.

On party lines they fight like fury.

TO FARMERS

ALL: The Farm Mobilization meeting held this week was one of the finest gatherings of rural and city folk ever held in our city. I was impressed by the sincerity shown by every person to do all he can to cooperate with Uncle Sam's program for food production. Many were of the opinion that it would be very difficult to increase their production; all, however, were certain that they would do all they could. The farmer who exerts himself to produce sorely needed food for freedom is as deserving of an "E" award as is any person in industry who meets an assigned quota. I hope that government and agricultural department officials get around to passing out these honors one day soon. Pickaway county has many persons who deserve an award for the work they have done and intend to do. More power to all of you.

TO 'C' CARD HOLDERS

DRIVERS: About 20 percent of the gasoline rationing permits issued by the local registering board called for rations permitted under 'C' card regulations. Many of you who have 'C' cards deserve them, and there are many others who have no need for them. Uncle Sam's OPA, working through the local rationing board, is starting to check up on 'C' cards, and my advise would be to surrender yours unless you can prove that you are entitled to it. And here's another thing. If you receive notice from the ration board to appear for hearing to determine whether you should be permitted to retain your 'C' ration permit I'd suggest that you appear on exactly the hour and date set for you. It might save you a whole lot of trouble.

TO COLD SUFFERERS

MANY: "Feed a cold and starve a fever," they used to say. But if that ever was really scientific medical practice, it seems to have changed. Columnist Drew Pearson says, on the authority of the President's physician, that when Mr. Roosevelt gets a cold, they "cut down his food and shift to fluids." Also that the food he gets at such times is likely to be milk toast and boiled rice. Well, the President must be more manageable than has been supposed. There are a lot of he-men in this country who would blow the roof off before they'd accept a Caspar Milquetoast diet.

Tests Made of Vaccines To Avoid Common Colds

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

HERE WE are in the common cold season again and we may expect, if former years are a criterion, that 50 million Americans will come down for a few days with more or less disability from this cause. We hear health propagandists say, "Avoid the common cold so you will not lose any days from the war effort," but they do not tell, unfortunately, just what means to take to do this avoiding.

The old gag about avoiding falling hair by stepping nimbly to one side doesn't apply to the common cold. If anybody wants to know the full wisdom that I have acquired in over half a century of contact with the common cold and would like to ask me how to prevent it and how to treat it, I can reply in three words, to wit: "I don't know."

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

After you have a cold, I don't know of anything that is calculated to do you any good except to go home and go to bed and stay there for at least 24 to 48 hours. The old-fashioned remedies are just as good as any, such as a mustard foot bath and harsh hot liniment rubbed on the chest and a glass of hot lemonade after you get to bed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

G. E. M.: What is Osgood-Schlatter's disease? Is it curable?

Answer: Osgood-Schlatter's disease is an injury to the ankle region. It can be cured by proper orthopedic treatment.

M. T.: What is the cure for pyorrhea? What is the difference between pyorrhea and trench mouth? Is it necessary to have all the teeth pulled when one has pyorrhea?

Answer: Pyorrhea is an infection of the gum margin. Whether or not one single germ or many kinds of germs cause it is debatable. Trench mouth is a form of pyorrhea due to what is known as Vincent's germs. Treatment of pyorrhea is in the dental field and is quite satisfactory if the case is taken early. It is certainly not necessary in every case to pull all the teeth.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Another Group Study

Another study shows that in a group of 11 people who were followed for 3 years as to the actual number of colds they had, there were 61 colds. In a year in which all of them took the cold vaccine by mouth, only 2 colds occurred in the group—a decrease of 96.7 per cent. This may be a little optimistic, but at least taking the vaccine will do no harm.

I have a little more confidence in cold vaccine taken by mouth because in the people I have seen who had taken it, there was a reaction for several days, as if they had a mild cold, with running from the nose, itchy eyes and cough. This would seem to me to indicate that a reaction occurred and encourages me to believe that possibly there is something in this new method of prevention.

Cold Vaccines

The use of cold vaccines may do some good, but I don't see how we are going to obtain a vaccine when we don't know anything about the germ that causes the cold.

Curiously enough, the use of vaccines by mouth seems to be somewhat more successful than the use of cold vaccines given by podermically; it certainly makes the process simpler.

There are several cold vaccines which can be taken by mouth which can be obtained from a pharmacist. Reports on a large number of people using these vaccines have been made for several winters. In one winter 500 persons were selected and cold vaccines given by mouth; 560 controls were used who got no cold vaccine by mouth. Following them through the whole winter, it was found that there was about a 45 per cent decrease in the number of colds in the individuals who took the vaccine.

Following them through the whole winter, it was found that there was about a 45 per cent decrease in the number of colds in the individuals who took the vaccine.

Another Group Study

Another study shows that in a group of 11 people who were followed for 3 years as to the actual number of colds they had, there were 61 colds. In a year in which all of them took the cold vaccine by mouth, only 2 colds occurred in the group—a decrease of 96.7 per cent. This may be a little optimistic, but at least taking the vaccine will do no harm.

I have a little more confidence in cold vaccine taken by mouth because in the people I have seen who had taken it, there was a reaction for several days, as if they had a mild cold, with running from the nose, itchy eyes and cough. This would seem to me to indicate that a reaction occurred and encourages me to believe that possibly there is something in this new method of prevention.

Cold Vaccines

The use of cold vaccines may do some good, but I don't see how we are going to obtain a vaccine when we don't know anything about the germ that causes the cold.

Curiously enough, the use of vaccines by mouth seems to be somewhat more successful than the use of cold vaccines given by podermically; it certainly makes the process simpler.

There are several cold vaccines which can be taken by mouth which can be obtained from a pharmacist. Reports on a large number of people using these vaccines have been made for several winters. In one winter 500 persons were selected and cold vaccines given by mouth; 560 controls were used who got no cold vaccine by mouth. Following them through the whole winter, it was found that there was about a 45 per cent decrease in the number of colds in the individuals who took the vaccine.

TO HOARDERS, IF ANY

FOLK: The most obvious fact about food hoarders is their lack of sportsmanship. At a time when citizens of normal decency automatically take their chances with their friends and neighbors about food, clothing, and so on, as they would expect to do if they were afloat together on a raft at sea, the hoarders try to grab and keep everything for themselves. One of the most disgusting cases reported lately was that of an Ohio restaurant man who had stored $35,000 worth of food and liquor in his home. He had evidently taken advantage of his business situation to accumulate and conceal the stuff without arousing suspicion. He had supplies hidden all over the place, from cellar to attic. There were 400 cases of whisky, six tons of sugar, one and one-half tons of coffee, 300 cases of pineapples, 150 five-gallon cans of syrup, 100 cases of soups, 1,000 cases of sardines, salmon, tomato juice, canned milk and canned foods of many kinds, hundreds of pounds of nuts, and so on. What any such hoarding amounts to is a deliberate effort to cheat one's country, neighbors and friends in a time of stress and scarcity. To right-minded citizens it brings a sense of shame that any neighborhood or city should be so humiliated.

TO LEGISLATORS

SIRS: The other day a well wishing solon offered a bill in the assembly which would change the name of the Scioto Trail to the United Spanish War Veterans' Memorial Highway. I have great admiration for veterans of the trouble with Spain, but I also have respect for the name given the highway numbered 23 many, many years ago by the Indians who first traveled it. The Scioto Trail it is, and the Scioto Trail it should remain.

TO BOOK OWNERS

FRIENDS: Soldiers, sailors, and marines all like to read. They like as many different kinds of books as there are kinds of individuals. They want good fiction, books of mystery and adventure, and also quiet, meditative books. They like books about nature and books about people, books about music, art, architecture, photography, philosophy, science, religion, John Burroughs, Emily Post. The men like to improve themselves. Books about mathematics, mechanics, history, geography, military tactics, are all popular. In short, men in the services like everything good to read. They like new, bright books. They like old books, too, if they are good ones, such as Shakespeare and William James. They like good translations of Plato, Plutarch, Herodotus. But they will read them only if they are in good condition. This is one of the cases where the golden rule very clearly applies. If you will give the book you enjoyed reading or would most like to read, that's the book the boys like and enjoy. There are likely to be sales of books these days. Some may be reprints, some reduced because there are only odd copies left. You might have a look. Send at least one book to a boy in camp. Let it be a good one!

TO FARMERS

ALL: The Farm Mobilization meeting held this week was one of the finest gatherings of rural and city folk ever held in our city. I was impressed by the sincerity shown by every person to do all he can to cooperate with Uncle Sam's program for food production. Many were of the opinion that it would be very difficult to increase their production; all, however, were certain that they would do all they could. The farmer who exerts himself to produce sorely needed food for freedom is as deserving of an "E" award as is any person in industry who meets an assigned quota. I hope that government and agricultural department officials get around to passing out these honors one day soon. Pickaway county has many persons who deserve an award for the work they have done and intend to do. More power to all of you.

TO 'C' CARD HOLDERS

DRIVERS: About 20 percent of the gasoline rationing permits issued by the local registering board called for rations permitted under 'C' card regulations. Many of you who have 'C' cards deserve them, and there are many others who have no need for them. Uncle Sam's OPA, working through the local rationing board, is starting to check up on 'C' cards, and my advise would be to surrender yours unless you can prove that you are entitled to it. And here's another thing. If you receive notice from the ration board to appear for hearing to determine whether you should be permitted to retain your 'C' ration permit I'd suggest that you appear on exactly the hour and date set for you. It might save you a whole lot of trouble.

TO COLD SUFFERERS

MANY: "Feed a cold and starve a fever," they used to say. But if that ever was really scientific medical practice, it seems to have changed. Columnist Drew Pearson says, on the authority of the President's physician, that when Mr. Roosevelt gets a cold, they "cut down his food and shift to fluids." Also that the food he gets at such times is likely to be milk toast and boiled rice. Well, the President must be more manageable than has been supposed. There are a lot of he-men in this country who would blow the roof off before they'd accept a Caspar Milquetoast diet.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON—On war issues our new congress is a cinch. Members may differ as to fighting methods, but these possible differences will be based solely upon the contentions of rival proponents of "a" that respective programs are more effective than one another. It already is evident that there won't be a dissonance from a total victory policy, on general principles.

It also is obvious that combined Republicans and a large group of old-fashioned Democrats are in an anti-New Deal majority. Perhaps it isn't quite as compact as the pro-war bunch, but it's pretty solid.

How far this alliance will stick together on other issues, though, still remains problematical.

Post-war peace planning is what splits 'em.

Republicans, in the main, are for peacetime American isolation, but some of 'em favor world federation.

Pro and anti-New Deal Democrats likewise are divided both ways. The pro-New Deal faction undoubtedly is also pro-federation, but, among the Democrats, there also is a sizable disagreeing element, as witness Senator Burton K. Wheeler, an economic radical par excellence but a leading opponent of any alignment with foreign countries. Burton might naturally be expected to plug for internationalism, but he doesn't; he fights it furiously.

This middle alignment is uncertain. It'll take more votes to tell the story.

Historically speaking, the Republicans should support a concentration of the executive powers of government and the Democrats should be against it. At present it's all scrambled. Plenty of Democrats are Republican and plenty of Republicans are Democrats.

About the only difference I can see between 'em is that they're of opposing political parties. Their hope is too confused to analyze.

Out of 435 members of the house of representatives there are 106 new members. The total is 222 Democrats, 209 Republicans and four miscellaneous, but that does not tell the whole story. The Democratic total consists principally of Democratic gains from the south, which notoriously is anti-New Deal—even counting them as Democratic New Dealers—which they're not, by any means, for the Democrats are principally anti-New Dealers. They're pro-warriors, but not economic reorganizers.

The senate doesn't readjust as fast as the house of representatives.

tives does, not having as frequent elections.

Nevertheless, the senators are scared.

They're seen what happened to their representatives.

Senate results have frightened 'em.

Among other folk, they're afraid of Vice President Wallace. He's so all-out New Deal that he's considered alarming. He's more so than the president.

The verdict is that he talks too much.

Its reckoning is that he's an Iowa-ite, who'd better be discounted from the southern standpoint.

Southern senators don't like him. Nor do southern representatives.

In brief, it's too much a northern administration, from the Dixie angle.

You hear this from every direction on Capitol Hill.

And Dixie will be decisive in all sorts of ways at this congressional session.

It's tied up with the west agriculturally.

You can see this from the last election returns.

Industrialism's and agriculture's versions are somewhat cohesive.

So it appears in congress, anyway.

Farm and industrial legislators incline to get together.

On party lines they fight like fury.

"Yeah, Ed, one reason why a dog has so many friends is that his tail wags, instead of his tongue!"

Tests Made of Vaccines To Avoid Common Colds

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

HERE WE are in the common cold season again and we may expect, if former years are a criterion, that 50 million Americans will come down for a few days with more or less disability from this cause. We hear health propagandists say, "Avoid the common cold so you will not lose any days from the war effort," but they do not tell, unfortunately, just what means to take to do this avoiding. The old gag about avoiding falling hair by stepping nimbly to one side doesn't apply to the common cold. If anybody wants to know the full wisdom that I have acquired in over half a century of contact with the common cold and would like to ask me how to prevent it and how to treat it, I can reply in three words, to wit: "I don't know."

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Cold Vaccines

The use of cold vaccines may do some good, but I don't see how we are going to obtain a vaccine when we don't know anything about the germ that causes the cold.

Curiously enough, the use of vaccines by mouth seems to be somewhat more successful than the use of cold vaccines given hypodermically; it certainly makes the process simpler.

There are several cold vaccines which can be taken by mouth which can be obtained from a pharmacist. Reports on a large number of people using these vaccines have been made for several winters. In one winter 500 persons were selected and cold vaccines given by mouth; 560 controls were used who got no cold vaccine by mouth. by mouth, only 2 colds occurred in the group—a decrease of 96.7 per cent. This may be a little optimistic, but at least taking the vaccine will do no harm.

After you have a cold, I don't know of anything that is calculated to do you any good except to go home and go to bed and stay there for at least 24 to 48 hours. The old-fashioned remedies are just as good as any, such as mustard foot bath and harshest liniment rubbed on the chest and a glass of hot lemonade after you get to bed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

G. E. M.: What is Osgood-Schlatter's disease? Is it curable?
Answer: Osgood-Schlatter's disease is an injury to the ankle region. It can be cured by proper orthopedic treatment.

M. T.: What is the cure for pyorrhea? What is the difference between pyorrhea and trench mouth?

Is it necessary to have all the teeth pulled when one has pyorrhea?
Answer: Pyorrhea is an infection of the gum margin. Whether or not one single germ or many kinds of germs cause it is debatable. Trench mouth is a form of pyorrhea due to what is known as Vincent's germs. Treatment of pyorrhea in the dental field and is quite satisfactory if the case is taken early. It is certainly not necessary in every case to pull all the teeth.

Embattled Love

BY LORENA CARLETON
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER FORTY-THREE

JUST AS Choppo said the word "jewelry" Eugenia hit him. Not just a slap, as a girl usually attacks someone. She hit him roughly, with her flat, a blow that knocked him to the floor. That was her mistake. She knew when she saw Rusty's eyes, cold sapphire blue, that he was here. They were like Judgment Day itself.

"Where I come from," yelled Choppo, "you'd pay for that, you crooked tomato. But I'm getting high hat and stuffed shirt. Abby says you don't hit dames. Worse luck! But I'll bet if she was here she'd change her mind. She don't like you anyway."

The youngster's breath, puffing in and out his nostrils, sounded like a toy engine running rapidly. He remained on the floor as if it had been his idea, as if he preferred to sit exactly where he was sitting and in no other spot.

Eugenia did not look toward him. "Are you going to let that impudent child talk like that to me?" she demanded of the recumbent man. "Why is he saying those insulting things?"

Choppo yelled again, "If the hat fits, wear it!"

For one horrible instant there was total silence. Then Restwick Carnes' weary grimacing smile reached Choppo. "SHOE, Choppo." His correction brought a sigh of relief from the child that completely flattened his already flat chest. He rolled backward and lay on the floor.

Eugenia's eyes still were fixed on those of her sweetheart. Those eyes that remained their icy sapphire blue. They held her fate. She knew. And it was not good. She must change it.

She wet her lips and began to speak. "Rusty—" She wet her lips a second time. "Rusty, dear, could we be alone?"

"Shame!" barked the little boy. "Why were you howlin' about even comin' to a man's room and now you want me to get out. No, Miss Turzan-Dame. No! I'm Rusty's bodyguard and he sure as heck needs one."

"Then let's talk about it tomorrow," pleaded the girl. "Let's wait until we're calm."

The man tightened his eyes wearily. "Please, Eugenia—"

"But you're tired, dear. You're tired and sick. You're sleepy." The eyes snapped open. "On the contrary, I'm wide awake, awake for the first time concerning you." He halted here as she leaned over, trying to get close to him. "Eugenia, draw upon your intelligence! Don't try to make love to me. Spare me that. And don't talk."

The girl straightened. "All I want," specified Rusty, "are the answers to some questions. Otherwise, Eugenia, keep quiet!"

Gone was the girl's furious attitude toward Choppo and the man she hoped to marry. She bowed her head in what she prayed would appear a picture of appealing docility. Misunderstood innocence. Oh, surely it would look like that. She was working hard enough.

"What are the questions, Rusty?" "Did you go from your lair to ours?"

"Sure she did," shouted Choppo. "I saw her."

Eugenia's good-natured laugh came as a surprise. "Yes, Rusty—but what a ridiculous question. I'll ease your worries. I had no vile purpose in mind. I did it strictly for a lark—a bet."

"A $15,000 bet?" Restwick Carnes looked away from the girl while he talked directly to her. "I'd hardly consider you and my wife on such terms that anything could be considered a lark."

Fear had quickened the girl's heart when he mentioned the $15,000. Another thing troubled her. Rusty usually called his wife Paige, instead of "my wife." Eugenia decided to turn back to indignation.

"I agree. I'd scarcely be on such close terms with a girl who had murdered a man, some girl who had been dragged through the courts—"

"And FREED! As I told you last night. No, Eugenia, it was no gesture of giggling girlhood. Phooey! Besides," he said, wrinkling his forehead, "wasn't Paige sitting down on the beach with me that day?"

"If she was," shot out Eugenia, "then how did Choppo see her with me?" This is all getting pretty silly, Rusty.

"Good heavens," despaired Rusty. "I can't even think." Doubt flashed across his face.

But Choppo dissolved it immediately. "Paige came up later and caught Eugenia in her room."

Again the girl attempted to bluster her way out of the predicament. "If you're going to take the word of a street urchin—"

Her sneer deepened, "and a murderer and Bootlegger Sal before my own, go ahead!" She stood beside the bed, shaking because she found herself wanting to hit everyone, including herself and because she was finding it so difficult to do it. She glared down at the exhausted man.

"You'd better go, Eugenia. And please don't ever come back!" Mastering her fear and anguish over the treachery being done her, the girl sank into a chair. "Rusty—" Her voice was soft again. In tones like his conservative teachers had tried to make him produce when he played Chopin's "Aeolian Harp Etude."

"Rusty," it seems you are angry with me because of something very unimportant. I'm sorry I struck Choppo, but otherwise I've done nothing. And that was nerves. I've had such a dreadful day."

The child's interruption was lackadaisical. "Tell Rusty about the dagger from the Mexican jail."

Eugenia North's back stiffened. "Choppo, dear, I don't know what you are talking about," she claimed. Despite her avowal, she did not look at him.

Restwick Carnes inserted quickly. "You do have a spoon dagger." "I have a spoon paper knife," the girl corrected. "A desk ornament."

"Desk, phooey!" snorted the little boy. "You were going to use it to gouge Paige with if she squealed on you. That's what you were going to do with it," he condemned.

Eugenia made little sad gestures with both hands and shook her head. "Rusty, it's too fantastic. Really, you can't believe that. Somehow through her fright-swollen throat she managed that good-natured little laugh of hers, those silvery tones of innocence. For the first time, she turned to the boy and really noticed him. "Choppo, don't be like this. I know you love Paige more than you do me, but please—I love Rusty so much. I want you to learn to like me."

"Why don't you save your breath, Eugenia?" He was wagging his head sadly as if deploring her lack of wisdom. "Don't you even know when the fish is unhooked?"

"Quiet, Choppo!" Restwick Carnes' command was brittle, but there was something about it that made the child mind. To the girl he said, "Choppo is right, Eugenia. Your chatter is miles beyond the point. It's worse than reading last week's paper. Stop trying to put such guff over on me."

"This is too much!" Eugenia was standing now. She was glad there were pockets in her sport frock. Inside them her hands were hidden as they clenched, striving to control her shivering, real this time, not simulated.

"God, oh God," she prayed silently, "help me protect myself. Don't let everything be swept away from me by this little puppy from the Chicago gutter. Give me a defense. Don't fail me." But her head felt like a bowl of gelatin. Suddenly, a sparkle of hope glimmered before her eyes.

Restwick Carnes was asking. "How do you happen to know all this, Choppo? Where were you when you heard Paige and Eugenia talking?"

The redness of the boy's face acted as a tonic to the blond girl. She could feel blissful relaxation creeping along her spine like the comforting hands of a masseuse. Slowly the youngster began to speak.

"Well, you know you told me not to go into that big extra special suite right at the end of the hall when you get off the elevator?" Again he colored, more deeply this time. "Rusty, I did. You remember, nobody was in it, but the door was open because some folk had been having a big party in it the night before. And so, when you wouldn't let me go in, I slipped back later and went in anyway."

"A sneak!" censured Eugenia. "You should know, sister!" ground out the boy. "Aw, Rusty, I'm a bad boy, but I'm glad. I saw this tomato straddle the post and go into yours and Paige's lair and then she picked the lock on the screen doors and then she went inside." His plate-blue eyes sought Rusty's. "You gotta admit that's darn funny. So I got on the ledge and walked over and I listened."

Business Women Hear Talk By Mrs. Kirwin

Members Urged To Buy War Bonds

Mrs. Paul Kirwin presented a timely paper on "Give Three, Get Four" at the meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club, Thursday in the club rooms, Masonic temple. Mrs. Kirwin opened her discussion by saying, "One out of every 20 Americans will be called to active duty, to face hardship, injury or death during the War, while the rest of us are needed here. We cannot all go but we can all help. We must help pay for planes, tanks, guns and ships, and the government asks us to lend money, not give it, by buying War bonds. For every three dollars that we put into War bonds, our government will give us back four."

Mrs. Kirwin urged all to join the 10 percent club, thus pledging 10 percent of salaries to buy bonds and stamps. She mentioned that buying bonds would keep prices down and would provide a "cushion" when the period of readjustment comes after the War. She explained that bonds may be cashed after 60 days in case of emergency and told how they were registered for the buyers protection against loss.

She advised the pay-roll plan as the best way to purchase bonds as it is a safe, sure, automatic way for all to help the government while accumulating money for things we may like to purchase after the War.

Mrs. Anna Chandler, chairman of the bonds and stamps committee, announced that members of the club voluntarily had purchased from July 1, until December 1, 1942, $875 worth of bonds and invested $35.75 in stamps. During 1943, reports of purchases during each three months will be sent to the State association.

Twenty members attended the business hour in charge of Miss Rose Goo, president, and enjoyed a fine dinner earlier in the evening at the Chicken Inn.

Mrs. Kirwin was appointed as chairman of the membership committee in place of Mrs. Irma Stevenson who is now employed in defense work at Oak Harbor. Miss Ethel Hussey was named as a member of the committee to replace Mrs. Kirwin.

CUGAT BUSY MAN

When Hitler moved into Norway, his Nazi storm-troopers methodically destroyed every Norwegian elkhound they could lay their hands on, because to Norwegians, the elkhound has a traditional significance—and Hitler hates the national traditions of the conquered. So, at the request of important Norwegian refugees, CBS Caravan Conductor Xavier Cugat and his wife are breeding Norwegian elkhouounds that will be returned to Norway when that country is free once again.

According to records for the past few years, this one is the best of them all.

Robert L. Gregg, Ohio sales tax examiner with home at Washington, C. H., spent yesterday forenoon here with headquarters at the Ashville Bank. Said he'd not been very busy, only just a few of us dumb ones asking for help. Though if restaurant and drug stamps were removed from the list, as Gov. Bricker suggests, it would at least make less work and fewer to count.

—Ashville—

The Duvall-Lockbourne, fish-minded boys who hold their annual fish fries, held one of these Wednesday evening at the home of William Myers, Lockbourne. By promising to wash the dishes, the ladies were invited and present. That "good time was had by all" properly applies to this fishy party.

—Ashville—

The drug store Hills family has removed to their recently purchased new home on East Main street. . . The fox-drive minded people of Walnut township are holding a drive this Saturday, the 16th. "Meet at the Walnut Frazier store at 12 o'clock", is the order announced by the drive leaders. All invited to join. . . The Fairfield county residents, now have in action, their tin can collection drive with collection points at many places over the county. MANPOWER BIG PROBLEM DURING 1943 BALL YEAR

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Most Major League club owners are rich men, and all of them are tough, hard-headed business men by training and tradition. Thus it isn't surprising that they are keeping their chins up in the most trying times they ever have faced—not knowing from one day to the next whether baseball actually will be able to start and if it does get under way as scheduled in April how long it will last before finally they come a cropper on the one hurdle that can throw them—lack of manpower.

They are more perturbed than they let on, no doubt, as they make their plans for the coming season, though things look brighter now in some respects than they did a few weeks ago. They at least know what the government expects of them; they have been given what amounts to tacit permission to make their plans for operating, even though they will face some hardships and be deprived of luxuries that baseball players have assumed to be theirs by divine right.

There is much to be said on the side of the magnates, too, considering the investments involved in the biggest sports business in the world. They plan to start and hope to finish to protect what they've built up, and they have a vast majority of the citizens pulling with them. Yet, while on the one hand they have got themselves straight with Washington and thus have erased some of their worst fears, they still are confronted by the steady flow of men into the services and what will the rosters look like by, say, mid-July?

There are more than 200 major leaguers in the services now, contrasted with a little more than half that number at the close of last season, with still more to go and in most cases it is the outstanding stars—the gents in the full flush of youth and baseball power—who are being taken. Which is as expected, of course.

Every day, it seems, two or three or a half dozen men that have loomed large in the baseball columns pick up muskets and announce over their shoulders as they head for camp that this is "it" for the duration.

Hank Greenberg, Bob Feller, Joe DiMaggio, Ted Williams, Pete Reiser, Johnny Beazley, Ted Lyons, Red Ruffing, Cecil Travis, Buddy Lewis, Hugh Mulcahy, Terry Moore, Enos Slaughter, Frank Pytlak, Birdie Tebbets, Buddy Hassett, Johnny Pesky, Dom DiMaggio, Phil Rizzuto, Tommy Henrich, George Dickey, Larry French, Johnny Sturm, Cookie Lavagetto are among the top flight men in the services.

Camilli to be Named If Army Gets Durocher

By Jack Mahon

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—If Leo (the Lip) Durocher is drafted, who will manage the Brooklyn Dodgers this season?

That's the latest problem confronting the paid-up members of the prophets' union, amateur and professional, along the banks of the old Gowanus today. Reading from left to right the mob was about split that, if Durocher traded his Dodger uniform for one of Uncle Sam's, either Burt Shotton or Dolf Camilli would be named to succeed him by Branch (the Brain) Rickey, club president.

Durocher has been invited to a "screen test" by local board 17 in St. Louis. This is a preliminary to reclassification and the Brooklyn leader is expected to be shifted from 3A to 1A status within the next few weeks.

Leo's wife is a dress designer with an income of her own and though he will be 38 next July 23 there is every indication he will be reclassified as soon as his local board has ascertained that he has two eyes, ears, arms, legs etc. and he has been given a blood test.

Durocher's file was transferred January 9 from the Brooklyn, N. Y. board at which he registered to St. Louis and his case is now at the disposal of his home town officials.

Asked about a successor to Leo, Rickey replied: "I will not open

FULL RACING PROGRAM SCHEDULED IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—A full program of racing for the 1948 season was the decision today of the Illinois Turf association.

Chicago's five tracks, Arlington, Washington and Sportsman's Parks, and Lincoln Fields and Hawthorne, were represented at the meeting which voted to make no curtailment in the season.

Each track will operate during the dates assigned it, although it was conceded that several of the tracks might have to transfer their meetings to tracks where transportation would be less difficult.

This might result in Arlington holding its meeting at Washington Park which is served by an electric suburban line, and Lincoln Fields transferring to Hawthorne. Sportsman's Park, a half mile, will not be affected as it has the same transportation available as Hawthorne.

INDIANA PUTS OKEH ON CINCINNATI'S TRAINING

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Jan. 15.—Use of Indiana university's athletic facilities for Spring training by the Cincinnati Reds of the National league and the Indianapolis Indians of the American association had the approval today of Herman E. Wells, president of the institution.

Under arrangements announced by Athletic Director Z. G. Clevenger, the Reds will come to the Indiana campus about March 15 and will finish their training about April 10 while the Indianapolis squad will not arrive until April 5.

Both the indoor and outdoor facilities of the university's athletic plant, one of the most modern in the middle west, will be available to both teams.

Clevenger said Warren G. Giles, general manager of the Reds who visited the university Tuesday, would send a groundkeeper to Bloomington to get the outdoor fields and diamond in shape.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Although few here have ever seen him in action, California Jackie Wilson, sensational welterweight, will go into his ten-round Madison Square Garden debut tonight the favorite over Jake LaMotta.

Wilson is regarded by many as the best 147-pounder in action, not excluding Ray Robinson, while LaMotta, a local middleweight, went ten rounds with Sugar Ray in October.

On the same card, Joey Peralta, of Douglas, Ariz., a lightweight contender, is slated for a ten-round go with Chalky Wright, former featherweight champ, over whom he has already won a decision.

Pre-season exhibition games drew 156,958 fans, and the 14 charity games attracted 453,652. The remaining 1,115,154 spectators saw the regularly scheduled contests.

ASHVILLE

Harry A. Litten and Captain John R. Kirby, both attached to the Lockbourne air base, left here Thursday for Chicago to be gone several days. Presumably their mission is something connected with the war effort.

Postmaster Stanley Smith has kindly given us some figures indicating in numbers and dollars the major portion of the business transacted at the local postoffice for the year just past, 1942. Number of money orders issued, 6485; amount of cash received for same, $62,370.46; fees received for same, $619.21; Stamp and envelope sales, $8,060.55; number of special delivery letters and packages, 526; surplus funds deposited, $59,737.73. According to records for the past few years, this one is the best of them all.

The board of directors for the two local banks held organization, annual meetings at their offices here Wednesday. For the Citizens Bank the directors are: C. E. Cromley, E. O. Tegard, T. L. Cromley, J. A. Coon, C. E. Weaver, W. M. Cromley, J. F. Wilson, officers: C. E. Cromley, president; C. E. Weaver, vice-president; E. W. Seeds, secretary-cashier; Fred J. Hines, asst. cashier; Ethel M. Fridley, asst. cashier, Virgie L. Six, bookkeeper.

For the Ashville Bank, the directors are: J. M. Borror, Ira Fisher, W. E. Hall, J. R. Hedges, E. A. Snyder, J. L. Spindler, Paul Tegard, officers: J. M. Borror, president; E. A. Snyder, vice-president; C. D. Kraft, secretary-cashier; Cleona Dunning, Kathryn Bowers, Valerie White, bookkeepers.

Robert L. Gregg, Ohio sales tax examiner with home at Washington, C. H., spent yesterday forenoon here with headquarters at the Ashville Bank. Said he'd not been very busy, only just a few of us dumb ones asking for help. Though if restaurant and drug stamps were removed from the list, as Gov. Bricker suggests, it would at least make less work and fewer to count.

The Duvall-Lockbourne, fish-minded boys who hold their annual fish fries, held one of these Wednesday evening at the home of William Myers, Lockbourne. By promising to wash the dishes, the ladies were invited and present. That "good time was had by all" properly applies to this fish-fry party.

The drug store Hills family has removed to their recently purchased new home on East Main street. . . . The fox-drive minded people of Walnut township holding a drive this Saturday, the 16th. "Meet at the Walnut Frazier store at 12 o'clock," is the order announced by the drive leaders. All invited to join. . . . The Fairfield county residents, now have in action, their tin can collection drive with collection points at many places over the county. None has yet been announced for Pickaway, but soon now, is the word. . . . Basketball game out at the school auditorium this Friday night. Pickaway-Ashville teams furnish the major action. Second stringers are on too.

MANPOWER BIG PROBLEM DURING 1943 BALL YEAR

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, Jan. 15—Most Major League club owners are rich men, and all of them are tough, hard-headed business men by training and tradition. Thus it isn't surprising that they are keeping their chins up in the most trying times they ever have faced—not knowing from one day to the next whether baseball actually will be able to start and if it does get under way as scheduled in April how long it will last before finally they come a cropper on the one hurdle that can throw them—lack of manpower.

They are more perturbed than they let on, doubt, as they make their plans for the coming season, though things look brighter now in some respects than they did a few weeks ago. They at least know what the government expects of them; they have been given what amounts to tacit permission to make their plans for operating, even though they will face some hardships and be deprived of luxuries that baseball players have assumed to be theirs by divine right.

There is much to be said on the side of the magnates, too, considering the investments involved in the biggest sports business in the world. They plan to start and hope to finish to protect what they've built up, and they have a vast majority of the citizens pulling with them. Yet, while on the one hand they have got themselves straight with Washington and thus have erased some of their worst fears, they still are confronted by the steady flow of men into the services and what will the rosters look like by, say, mid-July?

There are more than 200 major leaguers in the services now, contrasted with a little more than half that number at the close of last season, with still more to go and in most cases it is the outstanding stars—the gents in the full flush of youth and baseball power—who are being taken. Camilli to be Named If Army Gets Durocher

Reading from left to right the mob was about split that, if Durocher traded his Dodger uniform for one of Uncle Sam's, either Burt Shotton or Dolf Camilli would be named to succeed him by Branch (the Brain) Rickey, club president.

Durocher has been invited to a "screen test" by local board 17 in St. Louis. This is a preliminary to reclassification and the Brooklyn leader is expected to be shifted from 3A to 1A status within the next few weeks.

Durocher's file was transferred January 9 from the Brooklyn, N. Y. board at which he registered to St. Louis and his case is now at the disposal of his home town officials.

Asked about a successor to Leo, Rickey replied: "I will not open the book on the managerial question until something happens. Then I may move fast."

Favoring Camilli

The theory that Camilli may be offered the job, if there is a vacancy, originated at the weekly press conference between the Brain and the baseball writers yesterday when Rickey paid a high compliment to Camilli and said he planned to talk to him in the near future not only about returning to baseball but about the Dodger club and the rest of the National league as well.

"I intend to make a trip to the coast as planned," said Branch. "and have several things to talk to Camilli about. I have the highest confidence in his judgment."

The scribes put their heads together after the session and decided Rickey might offer Camilli a manager's berth as bait to play ball this year. Camilli is on record as being through with baseball for the duration.

The big fellow has been rumored as nursing managerial dreams and is popular with the fans and players. Shotton was among those named as a possible successor to Durocher at the end of the 1942 season. Burt is coach of the Cleveland club of the American league but is not regarded as fiery enough to fit into the Flatbush picture.

Neither John (Red) Corriden, the only regular coach nor Fred Fitzsimmons, who is on the roster as a player-coach are given much chance for the boss' job.

The Brain said he was greatly concerned about the drain of manpower in the minor leagues and predicted if the tide wasn't stemmed in the next 60 days many loops would be collapsing all over the country.

The big news of where the Bums of 1943 will train will be disclosed this afternoon, Rickey said the site was "near New York and would have facilities for both indoor and outdoor training."

The Dodger manager has been in Rochester for a routine physical check-up.

"I'm ready to go; that's about all anybody can say," he remarked on receipt of the draft board notice to report. "They haven't found anything wrong with me yet here at the clinic."

Opening of the new Silex plant in the Goeller building, Clinton street, moved a step nearer Friday when Joel Backus, general manager, said a carload of equipment had arrived and that laborers had started to set up work benches.

The factory is to produce Silex coffee pots, serving as an assembling plant. Mr. Backus, who has been in Circleville for more than a week, was pleased that the car filled with equipment had arrived. He said that two more cars of equipment are being dispatched from the east coast, one already being on the way. The other is being prepared for shipment. After these cars arrive and all equipment is in place, glass to be used for parts of the Silex pots will be sent to Circleville from the Anchor-Hocking glass factory in Lancaster. Mr. Backus expects two carloads of goods from the Anchor-Hocking.

The plant manager is still reluctant to name a starting day for his factory, since the remaining equipment has not yet arrived. However, he is hopeful that work can be started at an early date.

Question of labor has proved not too difficult, Mr. Backus said. He filed a request for employees with the U. S. Employment Service, located in the courthouse, and almost every day several persons, mostly women, appear at the plant site to register.

Only a few persons have been employed to date, but Mr. Backus is registering every one who applies for future reference. About 90 percent of the plant's employment list will be women when full production is under way.

The Silex company, main office of which is Hartford, Conn., replaces the Central Repair garage of the Fifth Service Command which had occupied the building for nearly a year while suitable quarters were being obtained in the West Goodale street armory, Columbus.

Mr. Backus came to Circleville from Meriden, Conn., after several years in the administrative division of the company. He will be in full charge of production at the factory.

PRIEST SPEAKS AS ROTARIANS ENTERTAIN SONS

Father Edward J. Reidy was the speaker Thursday when Rotarians assembled for their annual Father and son luncheon. Fifty Rotarians were present with their own boys or a boy borrowed for the occasion.

Father Reidy stressed the importance of understanding between father and son and urged that fathers seek to establish themselves as the heroes of their children. He said that while many fathers would die for their sons, that too few of them are willing to live for them.

"Children are inquisitive," he said. "They all go through the question stage, and frequently, during such times, are minor nuisances. It is then that the parent is inclined to ignore the child's questions or give a thoughtless answer. Some children thus lose confidence in parents and later turn to other sources for information and advice. And too often these sources are far from beneficial. They are even dangerous in some instances."

The priest discussed respect for authority, and said that homes in which authority is properly exercised turn out the best citizens. He urged that Rotarians observe Father and Son Day 365 days a year instead of just the one luncheon occasion.

Cease, my son, to hear the instruction that causeth to err from the words of knowledge.—Proverbs 19:27.

Barbara Jane, small daughter of Mrs. Russell Parker, 141 South Scioto street, remains in serious condition at Children's hospital, Columbus, where she was taken earlier in the week. The child is suffering from pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. George LeMay of Williamsport are removing to Chillicothe this week. They have sold their home in Williamsport to Mr. and Mrs. James Clark who are removing there from their farm, south of the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ziemers, Stoutsville Route 1, are parents of a daughter born January 12 in Lancaster Municipal hospital.

Mrs. Charles W. Bussert and baby daughter, born January 4 in Berger hospital, are now visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stebleton of Hamburg. Sergeant Bussert is attending officers' candidate school at Fort Knox, Ky.

Mrs. Oscar Root of 236 Walnut street is attending a florists' short course at Ohio State university this week.

Norman Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Anderson, East Mound street, started to work Thursday as assistant manager of the Chakares-Warner theatre in Springfield. Anderson, graduate of Circleville high school in the class of 1942, has been employed at the Grand theatre for the last three years.

Revival at East Ringgold United Brethren church is showing excellent results, the Rev. O. F. Gibbs, pastor in charge, announces. Singing during the revival is under direction of the Rev. and Mrs. Joseph L. Crouse of Wilmore, Ky.

Mrs. Russell Henry, who has been employed in the Office of Defense Transportation, Columbus, has been given a contract by the Columbus board of education as teacher of mathematics at West high school. Mrs. Henry, who is the former Margaret Adkins of East Main street, assumed her new duties Friday.

Mrs. Harley Noggle, 546 East Main street, entered Berger hospital Thursday night for a major operation.

COUNTY STARTS DISTRIBUTION OF OCD MONEY

Distribution of money assigned to Pickaway county for Civilian Defense purposes was started Friday by Auditor Forrest Short with each village and each township in the county to receive its allotment figured at 10 percent for each person in the district according to the 1940 census.

Auditor Short said that the money is being sent to all districts whether or not they have defense organizations. The money will be earmarked, however, for defense purposes and cannot be used for any other expenditure. Only a comparatively few Pickaway county areas have Defense Council organizations, Circleville, Williamsport, New Holland, Ashville, South Bloomfield, Tarlton and Commercial Point being organized. It is hoped that allocation of money by the auditor might add impetus to formation of defense units in other parts of the county. Circleville, Ashville and Williamsport have already received their allotments, the county seat receiving $798.20, its population being 7,982 at the last census.

Total amount sent to the county from the state was $3,130.50. Since the county's population is approximately 28,000, there will remain $341.60 in the treasury for use of the county defense organization.

Scioto township, in which Commercial Point and Orient are located, will receive the check nearest Circleville's in size. Scioto will receive $426 for its work, population of the state institution for feeble-minded at Orient being counted in the township's population. In case of emergency it will be the duty of the Commercial Point organization to serve the state farm.

New Rulings Affect Mail Sent to Soldiers

Circleville postoffice called attention Friday to a series of new departmental rulings affecting mail sent to men in Uncle Sam's Army overseas.

Because of increasingly heavy demands for cargo space for military shipments and because of limited facilities for delivery of mail in various theatres of operation, the war department has ruled that the volume of mail dispatched to overseas destinations must be reduced to a minimum.

The following restrictions were put into effect Friday:

No parcel exceeding five pounds in weight, or 15 inches in length, or 36 inches in length and girth combined will be accepted for dispatch to A.P.O.'s overseas for individuals.

No parcels shall be accepted for dispatch to A.P.O. addresses outside the continental United States unless they contain such articles only as are being sent at the specific written request of the addressee, approved by the battalion or similar unit commander of the addressee.

Newspapers

Individual copies of newspapers or magazines shall be accepted for dispatch to A.P.O.'s outside the continental United States only where subscriptions are specifically requested in writing by the addressee or for which subscriptions are now in effect. Such copies to individuals shall be accepted only from publishers who must place a special marking on the wrapper.

No circular matter of the third class may be presented for mailing overseas.

V-mail letters will be transmitted to A.P.O. addresses and transported by airplane where facilities are available, but air mail letters other than V-mail will not necessarily be dispatched by plane from ports of embarkation. They will, of course, be transported by airplane to ports of embarkation.

Other Rulings

Parcels addressed to individuals at A.P.O.'s overseas must be accompanied by the approved written request from the addressee (as explained above) when presented for mailing. The request shall be postmarked by the accepting post-office employee in such a manner as to prevent its reuse and then be returned to the sender.

Overseas A.P.O. mail is that addressed in care of postmasters at New York, San Francisco, Seattle,

OVERPLANTING OF CORN OKEH, WICKARD SAYS

Pork is pigs plus corn; so, with reports from farmers indicating they will increase their Spring pig crop about 25 percent, Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard has announced changes in the national farm program to insure plenty of feed grains to put the pigs on the market carrying plenty of ham, lard, chops and bacon.

Secretary Wickard says Ohio farmers and those in all other commercial corn areas can overplant their allotted corn acreage in 1943 without penalty if these farmers have planted their goal of war crops. In Ohio, these crops will include soybeans, dry beans, peas, hay and pasture, except sweet clover, for livestock.

As a further incentive to produce corn, government loans will be available to farmers at full loan rates in both commercial and non-commercial corn areas. Formerly, farmers outside commercial corn growing areas could obtain only 75 percent of the standard loan rate. Loans will be made in 1943 wherever farm storage for corn is feasible.

Barley production is encouraged in 1943 by plans to give government support to the price of this grain to make sure barley growers will get as much for the grain as it is worth as feed in comparison with corn. Ohio has not been producing much barley, but the crop has possibilities in a time when farm labor is very scarce.

Secretary Wickard says this nation now has record amounts of feed grains on hand, but those in charge of the national food supply want to make certain that these reserves are maintained. Relaxation of acreage regulations and the changes in loan and price support measures are expected to encourage the production of feed grains.

FAIR MANAGERS OKEH DATE FOR COUNTY EVENT

Ohio Fair Managers' association Friday had put its approval on October 20-23 for any event the Pickaway county Agricultural Society might wish to sponsor.

Last year the society voted to abandon the Pumpkin Show at least in 1942, and this year at the first meeting of directors a Victory Fair, which would feature Victory Gardens and Junior Fair features with entertainment features eliminated, was discussed.

Another meeting of show directors is expected to be held soon at which time a definite program for October will be set up.

The Pickaway county event will follow the annual Fairfield county fair at Lancaster, dates approved for it being October 13-16, inclusive.

Madison county fair at London will be August 22-26; Fayette, July 27-31; Hocking, September 15-18, and Athens, August 24-27.

COUNTY STARTS DISTRIBUTION OF OCD MONEY

Distribution of money assigned to Pickaway county for Civilian Defense purposes was started Friday by Auditor Forrest Short with each village and each township in the county to receive its allotment figured at 10 percent for each person in the district according to the 1940 census.

Auditor Short said that the money is being sent to all districts whether or not they have defense organizations. The money will be earmarked, however, for defense purposes and cannot be used for any other expenditure. Only a comparatively few Pickaway county areas have Defense Council organizations, Circleville, Williamsport, New Holland, Ashville, South Bloomfield, Tarleton and Commercial Point being organized. It is hoped that allocation of money by the auditor might add impetus to formation of defense units in other parts of the county.

Circleville, Ashville and Williamsport have already received their allotments, the county seat receiving $798.20, its population being 7,982 at the last census.

Total amount sent to the county from the state was $3,130.50. Since the county's population is approximately 28,000, there will remain $341.60 in the treasury for use of the county defense organization.

Scioto township, in which Commercial Point and Orient are located, will receive the check nearest Circleville's in size. Scioto will receive $426 for its work, population of the state institution for feeble-minded at Orient being counted in the township's population. In case of emergency it will be the duty of the Commercial Point organization to serve the state farm.

New Rulings Affect Mail Sent to Soldiers

Circleville postoffice called attention Friday to a series of new departmental rulings affecting mail sent to men in Uncle Sam's Army overseas.

Because of increasingly heavy demands for cargo space for military shipments and because of limited facilities for delivery of mail in various theatres of operation, the war department has ruled that the volume of mail dispatched to overseas destinations must be reduced to a minimum.

The following restrictions were put into effect Friday:

No parcel exceeding five pounds in weight, or 15 inches in length, or 36 inches in length and girth combined will be accepted for dispatch to A.P.O.'s overseas for individuals.

No parcels shall be accepted for dispatch to A.P.O. addresses outside the continental United States unless they contain such articles only as are being sent at the specific written request of the addressee, approved by the battalion or similar unit commander of the addressee.

Newspapers

Individual copies of newspapers or magazines shall be accepted for dispatch to A.P.O.'s outside the continental United States only where subscriptions are specifically requested in writing by the addressee or for which subscriptions are now in effect. Such copies to individuals shall be accepted only from publishers who must place a special marking on the wrapper.

No circular matter of the third class may be presented for mailing overseas.

V-mail letters will be transmitted to A.P.O. addresses and transported by airplane where facilities are available, but air mail letters other than V-mail will not necessarily be dispatched by plane from ports of embarkation. They will, of course, be transported by airplane to ports of embarkation.

Other Rulings

Parcels addressed to individuals at A.P.O.'s overseas must be accompanied by the approved written request from the addressee (as explained above) when presented for mailing. The request shall be postmarked by the accepting post-office employee in such a manner as to prevent its reuse and then be returned to the sender.

Overseas A.P.O. mail is that addressed in care of postmasters at New York, San Francisco, Seattle,

OVERPLANTING OF CORN OKEH, WICKARD SAYS

Pork is pigs plus corn; so, with reports from farmers indicating they will increase their Spring pig crop about 25 percent, Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard has announced changes in the national farm program to insure plenty of feed grains to put the pigs on the market carrying plenty of ham, lard, chops and bacon.

Secretary Wickard says Ohio farmers and those in all other commercial corn areas can overplant their allotted corn acreage in 1943 without penalty if these farmers have planted their goal of war crops. In Ohio, these crops will include soybeans, dry beans, peas, hay and pasture, except sweet clover, for livestock.

As a further incentive to produce corn, government loans will be available to farmers at full loan rates in both commercial and non-commercial corn areas. Formerly, farmers outside commercial corn growing areas could obtain only 75 percent of the standard loan rate. Loans will be made in 1943 wherever farm storage for corn is feasible.

Barley production is encouraged in 1943 by plans to give government support to the price of this grain to make sure barley growers will get as much for the grain as it is worth as feed in comparison with corn. Ohio has not been producing much barley, but the crop has possibilities in a time when farm labor is very scarce.

Secretary Wickard says this nation now has record amounts of feed grains on hand, but those in charge of the national food supply want to make certain that these reserves are maintained. Relaxation of acreage regulations and the changes in loan and price support measures are expected to encourage the production of feed grains.

PTZ IS A POWERFUL WEAPON AGAINST SHEEP WORMS

PTZ, our phenothiazine worm remedy, is highly effective against six species of worms. It expels more stomach worms than the average worm remedy and its active ingredient, phenothiazine, is the only drug known to be effective against nodular worms.

PTZ is available in two forms for treating sheep. These are PTZ Pellets and PTZ Drench. An important feature of either of these is accuracy of dose. Careful dosing is essential in worming sheep.
